Lordes, and the other straungiers. They toke Ladies and dauensed, and sodainly entered eight other Maskers, appareled in rych tinsel, matched wyth clothe of golde, and on that Turkey Clokes, rebanded wyth Nettes of Silver, and betwene the knittinges Flowers of Golde, and the Mantelles were Crimosin Sattin, both the Maskers had hoddes of Crymosyn Sattyn, these lustie Maskers entered, and reveled lustely, and when they had done, then were the spices brought and wyne, and then al persones began to draw to reste.

On Friday, the sixt day of June, the king and the Emperour, wyth all their compagnies marched toward London, where in the waye a Myle from Saint Georges Barre, was set a ryche Tent of Cloth of golde, in whyche tente were two lodgynges, one for the Emperoure, and another for the kyng, where these two Princes shifted theim. And when the Herauldes had appointed every man their roume, then every man set forwarde in ordre, rychlye apparelled in Clothe of Golde, Tyssew, Silver, Tinsell, and Velvettes of all coloures. There lacked no massye Cheynes, nor curyous Collers: an Englyshe manne and a straungier roade ever together, matched accordinge to their degrees, before the Emperoure and the kinge, were borne two swordes naked, then the two Princes followed in Coates of cloth of golde, embrauderred with sylver, bothe of one suite: after theim folowed the Kynes Henxmenne, in Coates of Purple Velvet, pieled and paned wyth rych Cloth of silver, and with them were matched the Emperours Henxemenne, in equall nomber, in Coates of Crimosyn Velvet, with two gardes, the one golde, and the other silver: then folowed the Capitaynes of the Gardes, then the Emperours Gard on the right hande, and the Englishe Garde on the left hande, and so in this ordre they wente forwarde, and in the waye the Maior Jhon Milborne and hys brethren, in fyne Skarlet and well horsed, met wyth the Emperour and the king where one sir Thomas More knight, and well learned, made to theim an eloquent Oracion, in the praise of the two princes, and of the peace and love betwene them, and what comfort it was to their subjectes, to se theim in such amitie, and how that the Maior and Citezens, offered any pleasure of service that in them laye, next their sovereign lorde.

When this was done, they came into Southwarke, wher the Clergie received theim, in Copes, with Crosses, and Sensers,
